

Each person on Wisconsin's No Call List signed up making the choice not to have solicitors disturb them at home with incessant calling. Prior to Wisconsin No Call List program, I would receive 2 or 3 solicitors calling a night, mainly from telephone and credit card companies. I do not want this program weakened in any way. I am not interested in anything telemarketers have to say and do not feel that I should be harassed by their calls. This law protects the people of Wisconsin, and they are the ones who should make the decision whether they want to be bothered at home and not bank and credit card lobbyists.
